Executive summary

Specified law enforcement agencies in New South Wales are able to authorise and undertake undercover operations in situations where more conventional investigative approaches are impractical or unlikely to succeed. These undercover operations are a powerful investigative tool and are known as controlled operations. The Law Enforcement (Controlled Operations) Act 1997 (the Act) enables those law enforcement agencies to grant an authority to exempt persons from any criminal liability arising in the course of such operations - and to indemnify them from civil liability - where certain conditions are met.

During 2014-2015 several agencies authorised and completed controlled operations under the Act in New South Wales. Most operations were conducted by the New South Wales Police Force, while the New South Wales Crime Commission and the Police Integrity Commission each authorised a small number of operations.

The law enforcement agencies are required to notify the Ombudsman each time an operation is authorised. The Ombudsman must also inspect their records to see if they are complying with the requirements of the Act.

This report sets out the result of those inspections for the period 1 July 2014 to 30 June 2015 and provides brief details of operations authorised and completed by the agencies during the reporting period.

While we identified some exceptions which are considered to be minor administrative errors or oversights which were able to be readily rectified and caused no apparent detrimental consequences for any parties, we continued to note the number of delayed notifications from the NSW Police Force. These are set out in detail in Chapter 6 of this report.

Chapter 1. Controlled Operations

Often it is only possible to gather evidence to arrest and prosecute offenders by infiltrating their criminal or corrupt enterprises. Such infiltration will usually mean the law enforcement participants also commit offences, for example, negotiating for the supply of drugs or actually buying and taking possession of drugs to establish drug trafficking is occurring. Unless these participants are protected for doing these things, they are themselves open to prosecution for the illegal acts. Any evidence gathered without authorisation may also be challenged during any subsequent prosecutions on the basis that it was gathered illegally.

A need for advanced investigatory tools to counter certain types of crime and corrupt conduct led a number of jurisdictions to enact legislation to enable controlled operations to be authorised, and to provide immunities to their participants. In New South Wales, the Law Enforcement (Controlled Operations) Act 1997 (the Act) authorises and regulates these types of operations.

The central features of the regulatory framework for controlled operations include:

- prescribing criteria and procedures for authorisation
- imposing binding conditions on those participating in controlled operations (including both law enforcement and 'civilian' personnel)
- imposing a system of accountability incorporating controls and safeguards to ensure that powers under the Act, and authorised activities, are exercised in a responsible and appropriate manner and in accordance with the regime established by the Act
- providing criminal immunities and civil indemnities to participating law enforcement officers and other authorised persons
- ensuring that activities engaged in by a participant for the purposes of a controlled operation are not unlawful, despite any other Act or law.

Key provisions of the legislation

The Act enables the chief executive officer or delegate of a prescribed law enforcement agency to authorise the conduct of a 'controlled operation' for a number of purposes. They are:

- obtaining evidence of criminal activity or corrupt conduct
- arresting any person involved in criminal activity or corrupt conduct
- frustrating criminal activity or corrupt conduct
- carrying out an activity that is reasonably necessary to facilitate the achievement of any of the above purposes.

Each participant in the operation and the proposed unlawful conduct (i.e. the 'controlled activities') in which they may engage during the operation must be identified in an authority to conduct a controlled operation. An operation cannot simply be approved without the chief executive officer also specifying the nature of the conduct or probable offences likely to be committed during its execution. Activities which would otherwise be unlawful are not covered unless they are approved in advance. Except in limited circumstances authorities cannot be retrospective.

It is expressly prohibited under the Act to authorise any operation which involves any participant engaging in conduct that is likely to seriously endanger the health or safety of a participant or any other person, or to result in serious loss or damage to property.

The Act also deals with the important issue of entrapment. A key legal principle is that the culpability of an offender may be diminished if the actions of the law enforcement officers or authorities act to induce the offender to commit an offence which otherwise might not have been committed (although it remains the fundamental task of the court to evaluate the criminality involved). It may be accepted that a mitigating factor might be that the offender was led by a participant in the operation into committing a more serious offence than otherwise might have been committed.

The provisions of sections 6 and 7 of the Act address the factors arising from the relevant case law that differentiate legitimate covert investigations from entrapment. Section 7 of the Act specifically provides that an authority to conduct a controlled operation cannot be granted where the proposed operation involves inducing or encouraging any other person to engage in criminal activity or corrupt conduct of a kind that the other person could not reasonably be expected to engage in unless so induced or encouraged.

Cross border controlled operations

Criminal activity and corrupt conduct are not constrained by state borders and so the Act provides for the authorisation of controlled operations that may be conducted across the borders of another participating jurisdiction, and for the recognition in NSW of corresponding authorities issued under a corresponding law of another jurisdiction.

The NSW Act recognises corresponding controlled operations laws of the Commonwealth, Queensland, Victoria, Western Australia, Tasmania and the Australian Capital Territory. However, NSW controlled operations authorities will only be recognised in other jurisdictions if that state or territory has first recognised the NSW Act as corresponding legislation. The NSW Act has been recognised as a corresponding law in the Commonwealth, Victoria, Tasmania, Queensland, Western Australia, South Australia, Northern Territory and the Australian Capital Territory.

Types of applications

The Act provides for 'Formal' and 'Urgent' applications to be made. Formal Applications are made in writing, or by means of a facsimile transmission. Urgent applications are made by such other means as are available, including orally, by telephone or by two way radio.

In both cases the application must provide the following particulars:

- a plan of the proposed operation
- the nature of the criminal activity or corrupt conduct for which the proposed operation is to be conducted
- the nature of the controlled activity which the authority will cover
- whether any earlier application for an authority, or a variation of an authority, has been made in relation to the proposed operation - or any other controlled operation with respect to the same criminal activity or corrupt conduct - and whether or not they were granted.

Under the Law Enforcement (Controlled Operations) Regulation 2012 an urgent application may be made to conduct or vary an existing authority for a controlled operation if the urgency of the circumstances makes it impractical to make a formal application. The applicant for an urgent application must keep written notes of:

- the date and time when the application is made
- the identity of the applicant
- the information given to the chief executive officer or delegate in support of the application.

The regulation also specifies the form in which a formal authority or variation is to be granted.

After considering an application, and any other additional information the chief executive officer or delegate may require, they may authorise the operation either unconditionally or subject to conditions, or refuse it.

An application to conduct a cross border controlled operation must:

- be made to the chief executive officer of the law enforcement agency concerned
- state that the proposed controlled operation is a cross-border controlled operation
- specify (in place of the particulars required by section 5(2A)(b)) the relevant offence in respect of which the proposed operation is to be conducted.

An urgent application for an authority to conduct a proposed cross-border controlled operation may only be made if the applicant has reason to believe that the success of the operation may be affected by any delay caused by making a formal application.

As soon as practicable after making an urgent application to conduct a cross-border controlled operation, the applicant must make a record of the application in writing and give a copy of it to the chief executive officer.

Mandatory considerations

A controlled operation authority must not be granted unless the chief executive officer or their delegate is satisfied:

- there are reasonable grounds to suspect that criminal activity or corrupt conduct has been, is being, or is about to be conducted in relation to matters within the administrative responsibility of the agency
- the nature and extent of the suspected criminal activity or corrupt conduct justify the conduct of a controlled operation
- the nature and extent of the proposed controlled activities are appropriate to the suspected criminal activity or corrupt conduct
- the proposed controlled activities will be capable of being accounted for in sufficient detail to enable the reporting requirements of the Act to be fully complied with.

When considering an application the chief executive officer or delegate must also have regard to:

- the reliability of any information about the nature and extent of the suspected criminal activity or corrupt conduct
- the likelihood of success of the proposed controlled operation
- the duration of the proposed controlled operation.

There are additional mandatory considerations for cross border controlled operations applications. These are:

- that a relevant offence has been, is being, or is likely to be, committed
- that the controlled operation will be, or is likely to be, conducted in this jurisdiction and in one or more participating jurisdictions
- that the nature and extent of the suspected criminal activity justify the conduct of a controlled operation in this jurisdiction and in one or more participating jurisdictions
- that the operation will be conducted in a way which minimises the risk of more illicit goods being under the control of persons (other than law enforcement officers) at the end of the operation than are reasonably necessary to enable the officers to achieve the purpose of the controlled operation.

Variations

Certain details of a controlled operation may be varied, including its duration. The Act permits each variation to extend an operation for no more than six months.

Code of Conduct

A comprehensive Code of Conduct to which all law enforcement participants in a controlled operation must adhere is contained in the Law Enforcement (Controlled Operations) Regulation 2012. The code provides that applicants and law enforcement participants must act in good faith at all times. Applicants must disclose all relevant information that might affect the way an application is determined, at the time of application and as soon as practical if they become aware of such information at any other time. The code also requires that applications and reports on operations must not contain anything that is incorrect or misleading in any way. All law enforcement and civilian participants must be properly briefed and the law enforcement participants must comply with lawful directions of the principal law enforcement officer and report any breaches of the Code.

Chapter 2. Accountability under the Act

The Act revokes some fundamental principles of criminal and civil liability and so it incorporates a three-tier regime of accountability on agencies that carry out controlled operations.

Internal accountability

The first level of accountability is within the agency. Along with the rigor required of applications and the decision making process of the chief executive officer, within two months after completing an authorised operation, the principal law enforcement officer for the operation is required to give a report to the chief executive officer. These reports must include such matters relevant to the operation as each individual chief executive officer requires.

The Code of Conduct requires that in preparing a report on the conduct of an authorised operation, the reporting officer must act in good faith (sub-clause 6(1)). In particular, the reporting officer must ensure that the report:

- discloses all information of which the officer is aware as to matters required to be included in the report
- does not contain anything that is incorrect or misleading in a material particular.

If a reporting officer becomes aware of information that should have been included in the report if it had been known at the time, or information that indicates anything contained in the report is incorrect or misleading in a material particular, they must ensure the information is given to the chief executive officer as soon as practicable.

External accountability provided by the Ombudsman

The second level of accountability is external to the agency and involves the Ombudsman as an independent monitoring and inspection agency.

Notifications

The Ombudsman must be notified of each authority granted, all variations to an authority, and of each report on a controlled operation received by the chief executive officer. Notices must be provided to the Ombudsman within 21 days of the event to which it relates.

The Regulation sets out what must be included in each notice. A notice advising of the granting of an authority must include:

- the date on which the authority was granted
- the serial number or other identifying code for the authority
- the nature of the suspected criminal activity or corrupt conduct for which the authority was granted
- the period it is to remain in force
- the nature of the controlled activities authorised
- the number of participants in the operation together with an indication of:
 - how many of them are law enforcement participants
 - how many of them are civilian participants (clause 11).

A notice of variation of an authority must include:

- the date the variation was granted
- the serial number or other identifying code of the relevant authority
- if the variation extends the period of the authority, the period it is extended
- if the variation authorises an alternative principal law enforcement officer for the operation, the fact that it does so

- if the variation authorises additional or alternative persons to engage in controlled activities for the purposes of the operation, the number of persons along with an indication of:
 - how many of them are law enforcement participants
 - how many of them are civilian participants
- if the variation authorises participants to engage in additional or alternative controlled activities, the nature of those controlled activities (clause 12).

A notice of receipt of a report on a controlled operation must include:

- the date the report was received from the principal law enforcement officer for the operation
- the serial number or other identifying code of the authority and any variations that have been granted
- the serial number or other identifying codes of any authorities, and any variations of authority, that have been granted for previous controlled operations with respect to the same criminal activity or corrupt conduct
- the nature of the controlled activities engaged in for the purposes of the operation
- the number of participants in the operation together with an indication of:
 - how many of them were law enforcement participants
 - how many of them were civilian participants
- a statement as to whether the operation was conducted in accordance with the authority for the operation including:
 - whether any unlawful conduct was engaged in by any participant in the operation, and if so, whether that unlawful conduct was the subject of an application for retrospective authority under section 14 of the Act [life threatening situations], and if so, whether retrospective authority was granted
- the date on which the operation was completed (clause 13).

Section 21(2) of the Act also provides that the Ombudsman may require the chief executive officer to provide any other information concerning the authorities, variations, and reports as is considered necessary for their proper consideration.

We require the reports on the conduct of controlled operations to include whether participants carrying out controlled activities during controlled operations have used surveillance devices. This is in keeping with our complimentary role under the Surveillance Devices Act 2008 which provides that participants in an authorised controlled operation may use surveillance devices without a warrant, but also provides that this information is protected information and is subject to inspection by the Ombudsman.

Inspections

The Ombudsman's role also includes conducting inspections of the internal records of the agencies to assess compliance with the requirements of the Act. Inspections of the law enforcement agencies records must be made at least once every twelve months although the records may be inspected at any time.

Controlled operations are authorised by the chief executive officer or a senior delegate of the agency. This is in contrast to other covert investigative methods, such as the use of surveillance devices and telecommunication interception which are authorised externally by a warrant issued by a judicial officer. The public interest therefore requires adherence to the highest standards of compliance and so the Ombudsman inspections pay close attention to application documentation, to authority documentation, and the correct process for their making, as well as the reporting obligations on agency personnel.

For the purposes of these inspections section 22(2) of the Act states the Ombudsman has the same powers as under the Telecommunications (Interception and Access) Act 1987 (NSW) (the TIA Act). Under these provisions the Ombudsman:

- may enter at any reasonable time premises occupied by the authority after notifying the chief executive officer
- is entitled to full and free access at all reasonable times to all records of the agency
- is entitled to make copies of, and to take extracts from, records of the authority

- may require an officer of the agency to provide such information as is in their possession or to which they have access that the Ombudsman considers relevant and necessary to the inspection
- may summon an officer (including the chief executive officer) to attend before an inspecting officer to answer questions relevant to the inspection.

Officers of the agencies may not refuse to give information, refuse access to information, or refuse to answer questions on the basis that to do so would contravene a law, would be contrary to the public interest or might tend to incriminate the person. Information provided under compulsion may not be admissible in evidence against an officer, except in a proceeding for an offence under section 22 of the TIA Act. Those proceedings relate to refusing or failing to comply with the Ombudsman's directions, hindering or resisting an inspection or providing false or misleading information.

Ombudsman officers inspect every authority and variations to authorities granted during the reporting period. All documentation supporting the granting of authorities and variations to authorities is also inspected.

Our inspection officers also examine a sample of records held by the Principal Law Enforcement Officers responsible for the conduct of the operations to ascertain how those officers have accounted for the controlled activities carried out.

Report to Parliament

The third tier of accountability is through the annual report to Parliament by the Ombudsman on the work and activities under the Act for the preceding 12 months. This report is submitted in compliance with this obligation.

A range of particulars about the authorities granted by the law enforcement agencies must be included in the report. In particular, section 23(2) of the Act requires details of the authorities that were granted or varied, the nature of the criminal or corrupt activities against which they were directed and the number of persons - both law enforcement officers and civilians - who were authorised to engage in controlled activities. It also requires information about the activities that are actually engaged in and the number of persons involved.

It should be noted that section 24(1) of the Act also imposes certain restrictions upon the information that may be included in this report. Specifically, the report must not include any information that, if made public, could reasonably be expected:

- to endanger the health or safety of any person, or*
- to disclose the methodology used in any investigation (whether or not an authorised operation) that is being, has been or is proposed to be conducted by any law enforcement agency, or*
- to prejudice any investigation (whether or not an authorised operation) that is being or is proposed to be conducted by a law enforcement agency, or*
- to prejudice any legal proceedings arising from any such investigation.*

Chapter 3. Changes to legislation

There were no changes to the Act during the reporting period.

Chapter 4. Inspection overview

Statistical information

During the 2014-2015 reporting year, 376 controlled operations were authorised and 333 operations were completed. These numbers continue to be slightly higher than the number of operations conducted in the previous years.

Chapter 5. Outcome of inspections

NSW Police Force

Section 23(2) of the Act requires this report to include certain particulars in relation to each law enforcement agency. Specific data relating to the operations conducted by NSW Police Force is included in tables annexed to this report. The records maintained by NSW Police Force and inspected by Ombudsman staff disclose the following:

- During the 2014/2015 reporting period 372 authorities were granted by the Commissioner's delegates. Of these 25 were cross border operations.
- Of the 372 authorities granted 109 were varied, with 29 of these being varied on more than one occasion. As such the total number of variations authorised during the period was 159. Some of these variations were to operations granted in the previous reporting period.
- Five urgent authorities were granted during this reporting period.
- Several applications were given identifying numbers but for one reason or another were not proceeded with prior to being formally considered for authorisation under the Act. As a result the numbers for operations in the appendix to this report may not be consecutive.
- There is some overlap in relation to the types of criminal activities targeted during controlled operations, although 91% of operations targeted drug offences, firearms offences or both. In many instances an operation will target a range of criminal activities including prohibited drugs, firearm offences and armed robbery; as such the following figures are a representative guide:
 - o Drug offences (280)
 - o Drug and firearms offences (31)
 - o Firearm offences (28)
 - o Murder or solicit to murder (11)
 - o Fraud offences, money laundering and proceeds of crime (7)
 - o Robbery and stolen property offences (5)
 - o Drug and property offences (3)
 - o Drug and fraud offences (2)
 - o Drug, robbery and firearm offences (2)
 - o Corrupt conduct (2)
 - o Child pornography and child sexual offences (1).
- A total of 13,579 law enforcement participants and 292 civilian participants were authorised to participate in operations. The number of law enforcement participants authorised to be involved in individual operations ranged from one to 225, while the number of civilian participants authorised for individual operations ranged from one to 19. It is common for more people to be authorised than actually end up being engaged in controlled activities, particularly in relation to geographical operations.
- Where there are large numbers of law enforcement participants authorised in an operation they are generally targeting a specified geographical area, usually a local area command. There were 21 geographical operations authorised during the reporting period.
- In relation to the 362 operations which were completed by 30 June 2015 and reported to the chief executive officer, there were 577 law enforcement participants and 192 civilian participants who actually engaged in controlled activities. The maximum number of participants who engaged in controlled activities in any particular operation was 25 law enforcement participants and 4 civilian participants.
- The controlled activities engaged in for these controlled operations were generally conversations and negotiations concerning the supply of prohibited drugs and the purchase of prohibited drugs. Some operations also included accessing data, conversations and negotiations concerning armed robbery, purchase and possession of prohibited firearms, discussions in relation to conspiracy to murder and conversations in relation to child exploitation offences.

- During this reporting period there were 563 arrests and 2302 charges laid as a result of these controlled operations.
- No controlled activities actually occurred in 58 of the operations which had been authorised.
- Some general administrative/typographical errors were identified at inspection. These were raised with the Commissioner and were rectified, including the referral of amended notices to this office, where possible.
- On inspection 33 files did not contain civilian undertakings. This was also notified to the Commissioner and we were later advised that in the majority of the cases we had identified the civilian undertakings were located on further inspection. A number of cases had the undertakings saved electronically but not on the inspection file provided to us, and this was rectified. All remaining undertakings were sourced from the Principal Law Enforcement Officer responsible for the authority and placed on the files. The Commissioner provided a spreadsheet accounting for all civilian undertakings that were unable to be located at the our inspection.
- Once again a large number of reports on the conduct of an operation had not been provided to our office at the end of the reporting period. Further information was sought from the Commissioner and the majority of outstanding reports were obtained by Covert Applications Unit and forwarded to this office. A small number of reports remained outstanding at the time of writing this report with the Commissioner's assurance they will be obtained and provided as a matter of priority. Full details are contained in Chapter 6 of this report.

NSW Crime Commission

The records maintained by the NSW Crime Commission and inspected by Ombudsman staff disclose the following information, which is reported pursuant to s.23(2) of the Act. Specific data relating to the operations conducted by the NSW Crime Commission is included in the tables annexed to this report.

- There were two authorities granted during the 2014/2015 reporting period and no applications refused.
- These authorities targeted drug offences and firearms offences.
- There were six law enforcement and two civilian participants authorised to participate in the controlled activities conducted under these operations.
- Six law enforcement participants and two civilian participants actually conducted controlled activities during the operations. Those activities involved the possession of prohibited drugs and prohibited weapons.

The signed Authority on the file and available for inspection under CO15/001 did not:

- specify any law enforcement or civilian participants
- address whether any participants may or may not operate under an assumed name
- specify any controlled activities that may be conducted under the authority.

Clause 6 of the Law Enforcement (Controlled Operations) Regulation 2012 provides for Form 1 to be used as the form in which an Authority is to be granted. While each Application for an Authority should have an Operational Plan, relevant details of what is being approved in the Authority are to be included in Form 1, specifically at section 6(b) where details of the participants and controlled activities are to be provided in Columns 1 and 2. The Authority should stand alone and not require the presentation of additional documents, including the Operational Plan.

We formed a view that the Authority for CO15/001 was defective as the Form 1 Authority did not authorise any participants or controlled activities, it only authorised the Principal Law Enforcement officer to conduct the controlled operation. We believe this does not fully comply with Section 8 of the Law Enforcement (Controlled Operations) Act 2007.

The Commissioner, while not disagreeing with the substance of our view, advised that his alternate view was that the attachment of the operational plan was sufficient to address the failings in the Authority.

The Commissioner noted that the operation was done with some haste in order to remove prohibited drugs from the community and did in fact achieve that objective. However, he also indicated that the Commission will ensure that any similar operation will be checked more thoroughly in the future by one of the Commission's lawyers, to remove any room for doubt about the Authority.

Police Integrity Commission

The records maintained by the Police Integrity Commission and inspected by Ombudsman staff disclose the following information which is reported pursuant to s.23(2) of the Act. Specific data relating to these operations is included in tables annexed to this report.

- There were two authorities granted during the 2014/2015 reporting period and no applications refused.
- These authorities targeted corrupt conduct.
- There were 7 law enforcement participants and 2 civilian participants authorised under these two operations.
- The report on the conduct of these operations are not yet due and will be reported on in the next reporting period.

Independent Commission Against Corruption

During the reporting period the Independent Commission Against Corruption did not conduct any controlled operations under this Act.

Australian Crime Commission

During the reporting period the Australian Crime Commission did not conduct any controlled operations under this Act.

Australian Federal Police

During the reporting period the Australian Federal Police did not conduct any controlled operations under this Act.

Australian Customs and Border Protection Service

During the reporting period the Australian Customs and Border Protection Service did not conduct any controlled operations under this Act.

Chapter 6. Notifications

Section 21 of the Act requires that the Ombudsman is notified in writing when an authority or any variation to an authority is granted and when the chief executive officer of the agency receives a report on the conduct of an authorised operation.

All agencies that conducted operations during the reporting period complied with the notification requirements set out in s.21 of the Act and clause 9, 10, 11 and 12 of the Regulation with the following exceptions.

New South Wales Police Force

As indicated below, there were a small number of delayed notifications to the Ombudsman, and, internally, there continues to be a large number of conduct reports and notifications of the receipt of conduct reports which were not provided within the statutory time frame. The majority were provided post-inspection; a small number remain outstanding at the time of writing. The Commissioner of Police has assured these will be provided as a matter of priority.

The following 2 notifications of the granting of controlled operations were delayed. The statutory time frame is 21 days.

Number	Date Authorised	Date Ombudsman Received Notification
2014/268PS	03-Sep-14	23-Dec-14
2015/187PS	29-Jun-15	18-Aug-15

The following 5 notifications of the variation of controlled operations were delayed. The statutory timeframe is 21 days.
